Event brief (500 words with photo):

The VE-SIP cell organizes a seminar on "HARMONY IN EXISTENCE - NATURAL ENVIRONMENT" on December 18th 2021. Dr. P. Meena Sundari, Professor/Head gave a wonderful speech on NATURAL ENVIRONMENT. She explain the life cycle of nature and four orders of nature. The earth nourishes humanity. The air, water, earth, sky, sun, moon, stars, ocean, mountains, deserts, and various flora and animals are essential components of this unique creation that comprises the world's ecosystem. As highlighted by Mahatma Gandhi, the father of the nation - our planet's abundant natural resources can meet humanity's needs but not greed.

Creating sustainable ways to handle water and green spaces is crucial to make a smooth transition to climate adaptation. Building infrastructure to collect water and protect natural water bodies must happen simultaneously as building green infrastructure to help people adapt and be more resilient. This will also allow wildlife to flourish in the city if done with care.

Many people see wildlife in the towns as a problem, and people who live in cities often get scared when they see wild animals, which leads to human-wildlife conflicts. Hence, there is a need to address concerns and change the ways how people act. This can be done in several ways, such as by building the skills of governments and non-government organizations that deal with possible conflicts and by making the general public more aware. Responsible people living in cities could help protect wildlife by keeping an eye out for them. This will also help curb poaching and other incidents that hurt wild animals.
